MULHALL TELLS HOW HE HELPED TO SEND ALDRICH BACK TO SENATE

Went to Rhode Island and Gave Labor Leader $600 to Swing Workingmen Over to Support of Senator.

SPENT $300 A WEEK IN BREAKING STRIKE

In Order to Keep "Colonel" from the House Committee, Overman Is Forced to Resort to Subterfuge.

By JOSEPH P. ANNIN.

Having won the first skirmish over the possession of "Col." Martin M. Mulhall, the Senate yesterday listened for nearly four hours to a continuation of his story of ten years spent as chief lobbyist and "field agent" of the National Association of Manufacturers.

During the day Chairman Overman, of the Senate committee, and Garrett, of the House lobby investigating committee, kept up a rapid fire of letters, the upshot of which was that Chairman Garrett wanted Col. Mulhall, and couldn't get him because Chairman Overman had him and wouldn't give him up.

Mulhall's testimony broadened out considerably yesterday. Senator Reed, chief examiner for the committee, placed in the record, after they had been identified by Mulhall, nearly 200 of the 3,000 letters he expects to introduce. These letters dealt with the fight on Senator McComas in Maryland, the work of Mulhall and his friends in the re-election of Senator Aldrich, the defeat of then Representative William Hughes of New Jersey, and the settlement of the printers' strike in Philadelphia in 1906.

Through the entire story ran the same methods. And through it all Mulhall was the one man, because of his supposed friendship with labor who would be able to bribe and buy labor leaders into working against their best interests and those of their people.

Counsel on Hand.

When the committee met yesterday morning, James A. Emery, general counsel for the N. A. M., presented to the committee Robert McCarter, former attorney general of New Jersey, who has been retained by the N. A. M. McCarter asked the right to cross-examine the committee's witnesses, present the names of such people as the N. A. M. desire to have appear, and handle these witnesses on their direct examination.

Chairman Overman said the committee would take the request under advisement as soon as Col. Mulhall's testimony is completed. A like request was made for the American Federation of Labor by J. H. Ralston. The committee also promised to take this request under consideration.

The correspondence between Senator Overman and Representative Garrett gave little promise of an amicable settlement of the difficulties between the two committees. Senator Overman advised Chairman Garrett that he understood the sergeant-at-arms, who Friday night tried to take Mulhall away from the Senate committee by calling in his name the House committee, "before the witness had left the committee rooms or the chairman had vacated his seat," had acted under Garrett's instructions. Garrett replied that he understood that the Senate committee had told one witness whom both committees want, to disregard the subpoena of the House probers. Senator Overman denied this, but could offer little help to the House committee.

Resort to a Trick.

In order to keep Mulhall out of the hands of the House committee without holding an adjournment, the Senate committee was forced to resort to subterfuge yesterday afternoon. Mulhall wished to go to New York, and the committee had promised to permit this, but when an adjournment was taken at a little after 1 o'clock last night, it was expressed that if the Senate exhumed Mulhall until

SAYS SHE'S ENGAGED; MOTHER SAYS NOT

So that's the Way the Love Affair of Princess Maud and Prince George of Greece Stands.

London, July 12.—Princess Maud, daughter of Princess Royal, a demure girl, who has always been submitted to parental control, amazed her mother a few days ago by announcing at the dinner table she was engaged.

"Engaged?" exclaimed her mother. "Yes," said Princess Maud hopefully. "I'm engaged to Prince George of Greece."

"You certainly are not engaged," cried Princess Royal, "and you are not going to be engaged just yet."

"Oh, mother—"

"You are not engaged, and that ends it," said her mother emphatically. And that is the way the matter stands now. The young persons fell in love last year when the prince spent the season in London. Despite the stern attitude of Princess Royal, the couple keep up a voluminous correspondence, and are making all plans for their marriage.

Princess Maud and her sister, Princess Alexandra, have been reared under strict supervision. They were always with their parents, and to the present time have been treated like small children. Princess Maud is twenty years old.

IS SUING GOV. SULZER FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

MIGNON HOPKINS

The young Philadelphia woman, who denies that her suit for breach of promise against Gov. William Sulzer of New York is the result of a plot by his political enemies to ruin his career. Miss Hopkins declares she will prove that Gov. Sulzer has broken a contract with her when the case comes to trial.

SALOON QUARREL HAS FATAL END

J. H. Hammond, an Ironworker, Stabbed to Death by Negro.

WAITERS WERE TAUNTED

Alonso Stevenson and Joseph Johnson, Employees of Avenue Hotel, Held by Police.

John H. Hammond, an ironworker, of 814 H Street Northwest, was stabbed to death with a butcher's knife last night at the Chicago Hotel, 36 Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest, during a fight, started after Hammond, Hans Waple, of 25 C Street Northwest, and Dennis McLennan, of 354 Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest, had taunted two negro cooks at the hotel.

Joseph Johnson, of 717 1/2 Twentieth Street, head chef at the hotel, was held for investigation, and Alonso Stevenson, of 41 DeFries Street Northwest, assistant chef, was held for murder by the police.

Negro Was Taunted.

According to the story told the police, Hammond, Waple, and McLennan were standing at the bar when Stevenson, in the double capacity of waiter and assistant chef, ordered some drinks which he was to take to some diners in the restaurant in the rear of the saloon.

The three men, in a jovial mood, made merry with the negro, pushing and shoving him, and calling him names, which he resented. In their folly the men followed the waiter back to the kitchen, when Johnson came to the aid of his help.

A fight ensued. Johnson, proprietor of the hotel, who was upstairs when the noise commenced, came into the restaurant, unable to quiet them, he ran to the street and called a policeman. During his absence, one of the colored men grabbed a long butcher knife and stabbed Hammond.

Dies in Ambulance.

When Allen returned he saw the wounded man staggering through the restaurant to the saloon, a distance of twenty yards, where he fell to the floor in a weakened condition. He died on the way to Emergency Hospital. Physicians announced that one of the stab wounds in his back had pierced a lung. A watch and $25 were found on Hammond, who was thirty-eight years old.

Stevenson made his escape by jumping out of a rear window which leads to an alley. Once in the alley he made his way to Third Street and continued to Maryland Avenue Southwest, where he boarded an Anacostia street car going eastward. Detective Raymond Kleindienst, who was on the car, noticed that the negro was in an excited condition and had several blood stains on his shirt.

"Who cut you?" inquired Kleindienst, "moving into a seat next to the fugitive. The negro in confusion answered that no one had cut him and added that nothing had happened to him. But the sleuth thought different and grabbed him just as he was about to jump from the car. Simultaneous with the arrival of the negro at the Fourth precinct station house, a lookout for his arrest came and Kleindienst held his conviction confirmed.

A few hours later Johnson was arrested at his home by Detective Evans, of the Fourth precinct, and Policemen Beckett and Mehan. He denies having any part in the stabbing.

Hammond had a wife and two children—Lena, thirteen years old, and John, eleven years old, who are said to live in Baltimore.

RULER CONDEMNS BULGARS' ACTS

All Rules of Civilized Warfare Violated, Constantine Notifies Powers.

FORCED TO VENGEANCE

Czar Ferdinand Safe, but Many Are Killed in Sofia Streets During Rioting.

Athens, July 12.—"The Bulgarians have surpassed all the horrors of barbaric times, and have proved that they no longer have a right to be reckoned among civilized people."

Telegraphing to the Greek minister of foreign affairs from the field, where he is in command of the Greek forces, King Constantine utters a vigorous protest to the world against the acts of the Bulgarians in the latest Bulgarian war, and states that he is compelled to wreak vengeance. In his message the King says:

"The commander of the sixth division reports that Bulgarian soldiers, carrying out the orders of their captain, gathered together in the courtyard of the school at Demirhisar, two priests and over 100 notables, whom they massacred. The bodies have been disinterred in order to prove the crime. Bulgarian soldiers violated girls, one of whom, resisting, was cut to pieces."

Town Burned by Bulgars.

"Protest in my name to the representatives of the civilized powers against the acts of these monsters in human form. Protest also to the entire world and say that, to my regret, I see myself compelled to wreak vengeance in order to inspire these monsters with terror and make them reflect before committing more outrages of this sort."

The commander of the seventh division reports that the town of Zere was burned yesterday, with the exception of the Jewish and Mussulman quarters. Many women and children were found murdered or burned beyond recognition.

MILITANT SMASHES HOME OFFICE WINDOWS

Crowd Mobs Her, Then She Is Arrested and Sentenced—Others on the Rampage.

London, July 12.—Militant suffragettes went on another rampage here today. One woman smashed several windows in the home office and was mobbed by pedestrians. She was arrested. Others made speeches and scattered incendiary literature in the streets.

At the police station the woman who had been arrested for smashing home office windows was identified as Kitty Marion, a member of the arson squad, who was recently released temporarily from prison because of illness arising from a hunger strike.

Miss Marion was immediately arraigned and sentenced to pay a fine of $12 or serve three weeks in jail.

Liverpool, England, July 12.—Miss Jolly, secretary of the local branch of the Woman's Social and Political Union, who was arrested yesterday for window smashing just before King George and Queen Mary drove through the city, was being led from the court room. Miss Jolly shouted at the judge: "You old fool, do you think you can keep me in jail!"

ROBBERS KILLS WATCHMAN. Ponce Secours Hills for Man Who Tried to Hold Up Hotel.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 12.—A masked robber, who attempted to hold up the fashionable Mantou Hotel here early today, shot and killed the watchman, and then escaped to the hills. A posse is in pursuit.

TRAINMEN WILL BE ORDERED OUT WITHIN A DAY

Strike Call Certain, Admits Leader, Unless Miracle Occurs.

RAILROADS ARE READY

Comprehensive Preparations Made to Guard Property—Union Men Meet Again This Morning.

New York, July 12.—"Unless something akin to a miracle happens, a strike will be ordered tomorrow, or at least on Monday on the forty-two Eastern railroads, which have refused the demands of the conductors and trainmen for an increase in wages."

This statement was made by A. R. Garretson, president of the Conductors' Brotherhood, at the close of today's meeting in Webster Hall and seemed to express the sentiment of the 900 executive members in whose hands the fight now rests.

The union leaders expect to settle the question of how soon the strike will be called a meeting tomorrow morning.

Seth Lew, president of the National Civic Federation, with Marcus M. Marks and Ralph M. Easley, of the same organization, appeared unexpectedly at Webster Hall during the afternoon and were at first refused admittance.

Mr. Lew sent word that he desired only to address the meeting and would not expect to keep them proceeding their deliberations. He was then admitted and urged the men to mark time, at least, until after the Washington conference, in which President Wilson will participate on Monday.

The address of the great labor advocate was received with a friendly spirit, but within an hour after he had left the hall, it was learned from a dozen sources within the union ranks that the men were unalterably opposed to a delay of any sort.

Leaders Fear Dictatorship.

If an order to strike, such as now contemplated, approximately 100,000 conductors, switchmen, baggage men, and brakemen will be thrown out of employment and the railroads will be paralyzed. The railroad managers admit they are now confronted with the most serious situation which has arisen in a decade.

The union men are taking every precaution to keep their proceedings secret. The convention was first called to order this morning at the Broadway Hotel. This was only a strategic move, however, to possible dictagraph planters. Within an hour the delegates fled out under the leadership of W. G. Lee and A. R. Garretson. Only Lee and Garretson knew that Webster Hall had been engaged as the meeting place.

"This precaution was a born of a bitter experience," said one of the committee. "On the occasion of two different meetings in Chicago we learned that dictagraphs had been placed in the halls used, and that our every remark had been recorded. It happens, however, that we captured the dictagraphs and have them yet."

Guards Are Ready.

The great railroads of the East have taken comprehensive steps to guard their property and prevent any complete interruption of traffic. At Harrisburg, where there is much valuable property stored, the Pennsylvania system has been alerted, and the police are equipped with everything that guards might need. A commissary car, diner, and sleeping cars make up the train.

Water pipes have been run from the back of the station to the office. The officials are to have everything at hand so the guards will not find it necessary to leave the train.

Police precautions are said to have been taken by the other railroads. A. R. Garretson said tonight that the union men probably would not send personal representatives to take part in the White House conference, but would authorize the delegates from the National Civic Federation to represent them. The object of this conference is to smooth out the differences between the committee of managers and the union men concerning pending amendments to the Erdman arbitration act.

The amendment offered by Senator Newlands is said to be satisfactory to both sides. The union men claim, however, the railroads have already refused to arbitrate and that new legislation will not aid the present situation.

Statement Is Made.

A joint statement was issued by Garretson and Lee attacking the sincerity of the statements issued by the railroads. It follows, in part:

"At a time like this, when public opinion is sitting in judgment upon the conduct of the railroads, it might be well to contrast which of those two interests have really shown consideration for the public."

"When the railway companies at the time of the engineers' disagreement refused to arbitrate under the provisions of the Erdman act, we at once announced our willingness to aid in modifying that act to meet these objections in the interests of general industrial peace, and have consistently aided in such effort in concert with the presidents of the large systems affected."

"During our early wage negotiations we offered to leave the entire subject matter to arbitration under the United States law. The offer was absolutely and unqualifiedly refused by the companies."

RIOTS IN BELFAST AT ORANGE FESTIVAL

Belfast, July 12.—Many persons were hurt today in rioting, which broke out during the Orange festival celebration. Thousands of Nationalists and Unionists took part, and for a time the fighting was so serious that it seemed that troops would be necessary to quell it.

Revolver and stones and clubs were freely used. Mounted policemen charged the mobs, wielding their clubs vigorously. A number of arrests were made.

FROM ENGINE CAB TO $15,000 JOB.

Charles J. Chase and his three children. Herbert, also, and Margaret, five, are at the left. Marian, who is Margaret's twin sister, is at the right.

New York, July 12.—Charles J. Chase, a $15,000-a-year engineer on the New York Central Railroad, will soon resign his job to assume the duties of a member of the New York State Public Service Commission, at a yearly salary of $15,000. There is nothing in the conduct or conversation of the grave-visaged man to indicate that he is at all overjoyed at the prospect of quitting the life of an engine driver for that of a high State official. Chase takes the appointment of Gov. Sulzer as a matter of course. "There is no cause for fireworks over my appointment," says Chase. "I had the support of organized labor, and possessed the necessary qualifications required for the position. That's all there is to it."

PLOT TO BLOW UP U.S. EMBASSY

Mexicans, Rabid, Would Drive American Ambassador from Capital.

SITUATION IS DELICATE

Pro-Japanese Sentiment Grows in Proportion to Demonstrations Against Americans.

Mexico City, July 12.—The anti-American feeling in Mexico reached a high tension today, and for a time it was believed that Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson and Consul W. G. Shanklin would be forced to leave the city. At a late hour tonight the government had succeeded in preserving order, and the streets of the capital were quiet, and the editorials in the evening papers, which of late have been strongly antagonistic, were extremely mild.

Early today Ambassador Wilson received an anonymous letter telling him of a plot to blow up the American Embassy. The Ambassador immediately communicated with the minister of foreign affairs and the police department.

The general feeling against Americans has been steadily increasing during the past few days, and tonight many of the prominent Americans still remaining in the capital are preparing to leave.

Ambassador Wilson made a second protest today to the Mexican foreign office against the anti-American editorials in such vicious and plain language as to leave no doubt that the Mexican government would be held strictly accountable for any injuries done Americans, and in event of such a reckoning would have to be made to the United States.

Japanese Sentiment Strong.

In commenting on these editorials, Minister of War Blomquist said: "It is true the situation is most delicate, but the government feels it able to cope with it. Lamentable occurrences may be occasioned by the anti-American feeling, but we are trying in every way to keep it to a minimum."

While the anti-American feeling has been increasing, the friendly feeling toward Japan has been increasing in the same ratio. Several of the newspapers have boldly announced that Japan is the ally of Mexico in spirit, and would stand behind Mexico in a fight for independence. In this connection, El Pais says editorially:

"We see in Japan a future ally and defender of our independence, because such an alliance would be dangerous to the United States."

A monster demonstration will be held Sunday, when several thousand students and school children will march through the city. The school children have been provided with tiny Japanese flags for the occasion.

No Reply to Demand For Americans' Release

With the War Department still in the dark regarding the outcome of the request sent across the Mexican border by Col. Brewer at Fort McIntosh, Tex., that five Americans held prisoners be released immediately, and the administration policy regarding intervention still in process of development, the Mexican situation seemed to be more dangerous and threatening from the State Department and will compel a definite ruling on whether the "hands-off" policy is to be pursued even in the face of indignities heaped upon American citizens in Mexico.
